VIRGINIA AGRIBUSINESS COUNCIL APPLAUDS LIFTING OF CHINESE BAN ON VIRGINIA POULTRY PRODUCTS

(Richmond, VA) This afternoon, Virginia Agribusiness Council President Katie Frazier issued the following statement applauding the news of the Chinese government lifting its ban on poultry imports from Virginia.

“We are thrilled to hear the news today regarding the lifting of the Chinese ban on Virginia poultry. The lifting of the poultry import ban has been a long-standing issue of concern for the Council’s members in the poultry sector. We appreciate the hard work and collaboration between the United States and Chinese governments, and the efforts over the past seven years of our Virginia Congressional delegation, former Governors Kaine and McDonnell, and Governor McAuliffe and his administration.”
